Macarthur Building Industry Skills Centre

I attended the Macarthur Building Industry Skill Centre, which is located at a most appropriately named street, Austool Place, Ingleburn. The centre is part of the TAFE Faculty of Building and Construction and I was privileged to spend some time with the faculty director, John Humphrey, David Johnson, Manager and Annette Dickson, College Manager.

These educators have dedicated their lives to the positive perception of TAFE, the education of their students and the importance of TAFE to our community. The Macarthur Building Industry Skill Centre is a dedicated and specialist centre for training in the building trades. It specialises in construction, allied building trades, specialist engineering and manufacturing skills. It is a large and modern factory setup with large overhead gantries and it is a multistory building with classrooms and facilities.

The courses at the faculty address New South Wales Board of Vocational Education Plan targets, particularly in the 15 to 19 age cohort and the 20 to 24 age cohort in apprenticeship programs.

The building and construction faculty provides a wonderful training opportunity for the young people of Campbelltown; the best of the opals of the south-west.

Parliamentary Update

The voice of Campbelltown has been heard loud and strong in Parliament! I have spoken in Parliament on 37 occasions. In Private Member's Statements I have raised some of the great work done by:

- Macarthur Justices' Association

Dear Constituents,

I am pleased to write to you as your Local Member in the New South Wales Parliament. In my maiden speech, I told the Parliament that Campbelltown had been neglected for far too long and that I would ensure that we will never be taken for granted again.

It has been my privilege to be out and about in our great community, talking with people and groups who are proud to live here and who are serving our area.

It never ceases to amaze me the wonderful people that we have here in Campbelltown.

Since my election, I have lifted the profile of Campbelltown by becoming one of the main speakers in the Parliament, where we are now known as the Opal of the South West.

This is reflected in the strong budget focus on our region which is building the infrastructure needed by a regional city that Campbelltown is fast becoming.

I am keeping a regular update on my Facebook page. Just look up "Bryan Doyle MP" to follow the action, or if you like, add me as a friend!

St Andrew's Public School - Principal for a Day

As part of Education Week, I was invited to be Principal for a day on Monday 1 August 2011. Upon arrival at the school I was provided an extensive tour, which lasted the entire school day. This included a Flash Mob dance demonstration by the whole school. The choreography was superb, with staff and students thoroughly enjoying themselves. The depth and range of artistic talent and movement was just amazing. I told the school assembly that the week before I had presented first place at the School Rock Eisteddfod in Wollongong and what I saw there would have stood well with the high school students. The students also performed their new school song.

For more than 30 years St Andrew's Public School has been committed to providing high-quality public education within the context of a strong discipline. The school believes that quality education comes from quality teaching and that every staff member — permanent or casual, experienced or new — is crucial to ensuring the very best education for our students. The school is an absolute credit to the students, parents and teachers, and I was glad that I could share a day with them and return the school to them in almost the same state in which I found it.

State Budget 2011-12

Rebuilding New South Wales

State Budget 2011-12

Rebuilding New South Wales

Campbelltown

It gives me great pleasure to say that the Liberal & National's first budget is delivering for the residents of Campbelltown and giving it the recognition that we deserve. Here is a list of funding that has been allocated to our city in the recent Budget.

- Reducing congestion on Campbelltown Road - $5.2 million allocated in 2011-12
- New Aboriginal housing in Campbelltown - $822,000 allocated in 2011-12
- Campbelltown TAFE - $773,000 allocated in 2011-12 for fire proofing
- New public housing in Airids, Bradbury, Minto and Campbelltown - more than $8 million
- Boost in funding for Community Transport to local services including those provided by South West Community Transport and Gandangara Community Transport

The Budget also includes a five-year $2 billion program for disability services, which is the largest funding commitment to disability services made in the nation's history. Locally this includes $500,000 for a new five-bed group home in Campbelltown for people with a disability. The Government has also delivered on key environmental programs that includes $40 million over the next four years for improving management, visitor access and education in national parks and for the creation of Dharawal National Park.

Upgrade for Campbelltown Hospital

I am pleased to announce that Campbelltown Hospital will undergo a long overdue major upgrade and expansion, with $139 million dollars allocated to it over four years in State Budget.

The emergency department and surgical wards will be improved, with the expansion of existing inpatient services by 70 beds.

The funds will be spread over the next five years with an initial $7 million to be spent next year.

Transport

We are delivering on the South West Rail Link, with $292 million invested in 2011-12 including 10.5km of twin track between Glenfield and Leppington, two new stations and Edmondson Park and Leppington, car parking and a train stabling facility at Rossmore.

The F5 upgrade will receive a $25 million injection this year for widening between Brooks Road and Narellan Road.

The Government is also delivering for Western Sydney from the allocation of $152 million to buy and upgrade new train carriages, the purchase of 261 new buses worth $118 million in metropolitan and outer metropolitan areas and $110 million to start the roll out of electronic ticketing, "The Opal".

NO Interest Loan Scheme

I recently announced grants of $84,331.36 for Macarthur NILS, $36,142.01 for Macarthur Diversity Services NILS and $12,047.34 for Mount Annan Church Community Services to deliver vital financial support services to residents in Campbelltown.

The grants are part of a $315,000 boost in recurrent funding by the NSW Government to support the No Interest Loans Scheme NILS. The increase came into effect on 1 July and brings the annual funding to nearly $2.1 million.

The Government's funding provides for ongoing employment of administrative staff and the employment of a full-time state coordinator. The scheme provides interest free loans of up to $1200 to low income earners in difficult financial circumstances so they can buy essential household or medical products and services.

NILS was founded by the Good Shepherd Youth and Family Service in Victoria in 1981 and is now the largest micro-credit network in Australia. National Australia Bank provides loan capital of $23 million annually across Australia.

Minister for Road & Ports

- The Budget delivers on our commitments and rebuilds the finances.
- The Budget delivers more teachers, more nurses and more police.
- The Budget delivers a record infrastructure spend for NSW.

Rebuilding NSW means repairing what was left behind, improving services and building the infrastructure the people of NSW need.

Rebuilding the Finances

The O'Farrell Government has taken tough decisions to get the Budget back on track. These include ensuring the wages policy put in place in 2007 is actually followed, not paying workers who don't have a job, voluntary redundancies similar to Queensland, and unlocking funds from the Sydney Desalination Plant and Port Botany.

Through these savings and better accountability, the Budget delivers a turnaround of $5.2 billion over four years, while fully funding our election commitments.

If we don't get expenses under control, there will be no funds to improve services for the community.

Rebuilding Frontline Services

This Budget delivers 900 more teachers, 2,475 more nurses and 550 police officers over the next four years.

We are delivering 662 hospital beds, purchasing 261 new buses and investing $131 million in better police stations.

We are expanding ferry services and spending $102 million on more express train services.

Rebuilding Infrastructure

This Budget delivers record infrastructure spending to address the building backlog left by the previous Government.

Spending on hospitals and health capital works over the next four years is $4.7 billion - 50 per cent higher than that over the last four years.

This Budget takes action to deliver key transport projects, including the North West Rail Link, South West Rail Link, and the upgrade of the Pacific and Princes Highway.

Rebuilding Support for the Vulnerable

This Budget's investment of $2.8 billion in disability services is the most significant in the history of Australia. An additional $2 billion under the new phase of Stronger Together, over the next five years, will boost capacity by an estimated 47,000 new places.

Rebuilding Confidence

We will rebuild confidence by taking control of our Budget and ensuring we deliver on our commitments.

REBUILDING CAMPBELLTOWN

The NSW Liberals & Nationals Government's Budget takes direct action to rebuild NSW.

It will start repairing the State's finances, improving essential services, building the essential infrastructure and protecting the State's most vulnerable.

It also delivers our election commitments.

This Budget will boost essential services in NSW - with funding for almost 4000 extra frontline staff for our hospitals, schools and police stations over the next five years.

It also delivers the biggest infrastructure commitment in the history of the State - totalling $62.6 billion over the next four years - an increase of $7 billion or more than 12 per cent.

In health we are spending a $1.08 billion health capital works program - a record amount - including a $343 million for new works to expand and renovate the State's ageing hospitals to meet growing community needs.

In transport and roads we have allocated $6.3 billion including $200 million to tackle congestion and safety on key routes and more than $600 million to fast track the North West and South West Rail links.

This Budget is about rebuilding our State and making NSW number one again.

The Hon Barry O'Farrell MP
Premier of NSW
